Hello. We are looking for highly intelligent individuals. To find them, we have devised a test.

There is a message hidden in this image.

Find it, and it will lead you on the road to finding us. We look forward to meeting the few that will make it all the way through.

Good luck,

3301

There is steno, not sure if it's what's causing the dots or not.

I'm kicking myself for not noticing "out" "guess" in the decoy picture. Anyway, somebody else did apparently and the puzzle has moved on.

I'm going to summarize what was found as of the last /b/ thread I saw, give me a bit to write it up.

Progress so far:

First, there is this text appended to the end of image:

TIBERIVS CLAUDIVS CAESAR says "lxt>33m2mqkyv2gsq3q=w]O2ntk"

Decrypt this with a Caesar cipher, and you get:

<http://i.imgur.com/m9sYK.jpg>

This image of a decoy contains the words "out" and "guess", a reference to the steganography software OutGuess:

<http://www.outguess.org/>

Decrypting the message with Outguess gives you this text:

<http://pastebin.com/aXYZzzcv>

There is a book code and a link to a Reddit page:

<http://www.reddit.com/r/a2e7j6ic78h0j/>

Of note are two images on the Reddit page which also contain Outguess messages:

<http://pastebin.com/sJiGQEPm>
<http://pastebin.com/2xkvnPER>

Some of the text from the Reddit page is here:

<http://pastebin.com/dhKbFCNW>
 but more text continues to be added.

The title of the Reddit page:

a2e7j6ic78h0j

and the Mayan numbers on top are two representations of the following sequence of numbers:

10, 2, 14, 7, 19, 6, 18, 12, 7, 8, 17, 0, 19

Subtract these numbers from the text and you obtain, at least for the first 13 characters:

U - 10 = K

k - 2 = i

b - 14 = n

n - 7 = g

T - 19 = A

x - 6 = r

l - 18 = t

t - 12 = h

b - 7 = u

z - 8 = r

n - 17 = w

a - 0 = a

l - 19 = s

This text is the beginning of "Owain, or the Lady of the Fountain" from The Mabinogion.

Here is an online copy:

Guys, we've gone a long way.

I used the book codes we got from the duck image (<http://pastebin.com/aXYZzzcy>).

on the Arthurian story that was all jumbled up on reddit. The codes stood for line/character (including spaces and quotes)

I drew upon a reformatted version that took the new lining into account:

<http://pastebin.com/b9i54yWD>

Using the codes there, I found that it told me "call us at two on four three ni oi ni si oi eight" which I interpreted as 2143909608. Call it.

When I called it, a voice congratulated I. It told me I needed to multiply three prime numbers, one 3301, the other two contained in the original black and white message, and the add .com to find the next clue. The second two primes were 503, and 509, the dimensions of the original message. Multiplied them and got to here:

Cicadas use a survival strategy called "predator satiation". This is the way it works:

The cicadas emerge at precisely coordinated intervals of 13 or 17 years. By appearing in the hundreds of thousands, the risk to each cicada of being eaten is reduced. The predators can not eat the cicadas fast enough to pose a significant threat to the population.

This life cycles are primes. This reduces the chance that cicadas spawn at the same time (and thus increasing the chance of predators eating them)

13 and 17 might be key numbers in this puzzle.

Just proving a point.

This hunt is nothing to be worked up about. You should realize, if there really was someone... or some company... that only wanted intelligent people (and a small amount) to find them, they wouldn't make it so easy to discover, let alone, able to be discovered by large numbers of individuals across the internet, as that would ruin its purpose.

Thus, there's two likely scenarios: One being that this is simply a clever ARG, or two, there actually is some sort of deep message hidden in there that little to no one will find, with this hunt there to deter everyone else from the real prize.

I stated the Deep Web bullshit to show a point that if people seriously wanted to hide anything on the web for someone to find, at the very least it wouldn't be able to be found using search engines.

I mean, come on, really?

Parts of the Deep Web branch out into multiple TLDs and pseudo TLDs, though the one most talked about is .onion. Cut short, you need an anonymous method to browse the Deep Web, aka, Tor.

Since you probably plan to poke around, when running Tor, use other proxies and keep your Anti-virus updated. Though you won't get into any trouble following common sense (same as here).

The dots are in fact from the Outguess steganography program. The reason it's in 8x8 blocks is because JPEG compresses each 8x8 block of an image separately, and since it's lossy compression, OutGuess has to modify the compressed data rather than working on individual pixels in the image.

Here's a solid color image with a test message hidden in it. You'll find the same artifacts.

It's actually good practice to use photographs instead of solid color images if you're hiding messages in them, because these kind of artifacts give the presence of steganography away.

Let's look at this a little differently for a bit:

What have they actually tested so far:

- * Ability to find steganographic message in an image -- Technical Security / Tradecraft?
- * Then the cipher on reddit -- Cryptograpy / Codes?
- * Then the phone number -- not sure
- * Web site "patience is a virtue" -- not sure
- * All these locations? Our location / how connected we are / ability to work together

So we've got:

- * Technical Security / Tradecraft
- * Cryptography / Codes
- * Resourcefulness / Team player / connected

They said they want "highly intelligent" individuals... So, maybe they want people that aren't just computer smart, but are well-rounded smart.

I can't wait to see what the next clue is.

Just plugged

>Oleandrów 6, 01-001 Warsaw, Poland into google maps as I'm somewhat familiar with this city, and there's a dot marking this place with description of 'lthffhjffgjkkgfg'

The place is a student's campus, unsurprisingly.

I've also found one opinion on it 'please stop, this is a mistake'. No idea WTF.

Checked two of them in Paris on gmaps, nothing similar to this. Didn't see any mention on pastebin about it, but there probably is somewhat related.

disregard the bit about student's campus - it's a bit to the west compared to this place.

It's the address to, according to dictionary, 'ordynator - head of hospital department'.

Guys I live in Fayetteville, Arkansas. I go to college at the UofA which is where the coordinate is pointing. I have a class in that building. Am I supposed to go there and look for a symbol? Like what? A picture? The cicada? HALP!

dude, it's just a picture of a cicada like the ones you've seen in this thread. It will have a QR code on it, so if you have an eye phone, or something that can scan QR codes, that will help alot. It will be plastered on a Street Lamp probably (the other ones were). Also, if you want to be selfish, you can take it down, so that others will no that it's already been taken, and so that you can try and figure it out before anyone else has a chance. But if you don't know anything about decryption, you might as well leave it up, or at least put the link from the QR code online.

After that you'll want to use Outguess with an encryption key of 7A35090F to figure out the book code for that specific login.

Also, with that said. Can anyone explain to me how the fuck I use Outguess?
